Illuminating Our City

You are the light of the world. A city on a hill cannot be hidden.

Matthew 5:14

Trevecca
and the city of Nashville have a rich history together. When J.O.
McClurkan set out to create a school, he wanted to make it an outreach to the Nashville community and its surroundings.
Since its conception, Trevecca has been a vital part of the city. Every location of Trevecca has given opportunities to its students to show God's love around them. Today it is still Trevecca's goal to reach out past the entrance into a world that desperately needs to know the God that so many on this campus experience daily. Trevecca's location in Nashville gives our students valuable opportunities that prepare them for lives and careers in community. As Christians, our goal is The goal of Christians is to influence those in our city through compassion and outreach. When we graduate from this institution, I hope that find ourselves taking what we learned "up on the hill" and applying it wherever we end up in the world. Just as Matthew 5:14 says, "we are the light of the world and we must never hide it under a bowl, but rather let our light shine for all to see."

Blessings,
Matt Taylor
Editor-in-Chief

Prologue From The President

The Trevecca campus has been home to diverse occupants. The hill we call sacred ground has served as a Catholic home for orphaned children, an asylum for the mentally ill, a college for African-American students, the home of a prominent Nashville judge, and the site of a Union Army encampment during the Civil War. When Trevecca lost the campus on the east side of Nashville, President A. B. Mackey and a few friends chopped their way through the weeds of an overgrown hilltop to claim this ground for the purposes of Christian higher education. Today Trevecca enjoys a vista of downtown Nashville that is mysteriously inviting.

I wonder about those persons who lived on this hill before Trevecca took ownership of it. How many homeless children sat on this hilltop looking into downtown Nashville, dreaming of a future? How many troubled adult patients walked this ground trying to find sanity somewhere beneath their feet? How many sons and daughters of slaves began an educational journey in a culture that deprived them of the benefits of academia? How many legal cases that judge pondered while strolling the hilltop? How many soldiers far from home bedded down beside campfires while hoping for peace in a divided nation. This hilltop is not without history. This hill and its inhabitants have been looking out over Nashville for a long time.

Hynes school building.

This yearbook prominently features Trevecca's location in Nashville. Trevecca's founder, J.O. McClurkan, was one of Nashville 's leading citizens. He was known for his social concern. From its inception, Trevecca has been interested in the city. Having occupied a reclaimed church on the east bank of the Cumberland River, historic buildings in the shadow of the state capitol and the Ryman Auditorium, a former governor's home on Gallatin Pike, and the current campus, Trevecca has always been deeply concerned for and deeply connected to Nashville. Trevecca has cared for Nashville's poor, her homeless, her hungry, her sick, her uneducated, her prisoners, her lost. Today is no different. We believe that God calls us, equips us for service, and gives us to the world as a sign of his gracious love.

As you browse the pages of this book, you will see faces. What you may not see is that the city of Nashville has been made a better place by these people, the people of Trevecca Nazarene University. It is my hope that this pictorial journal of a year in the Trevecca story will open your eyes to the great good being done in a great city by a people who exist to be rather than to seem.

Dedication
Ann Fuqua

The 2007 Darda is dedicated to Ann K. Fuqua, professor of biology and science education. Dr. Fuqua earned her undergraduate degree, master's degree, and education specialist degree from George Peabody College, and later she completed her Ph.D. at George Peabody College, by then a part of Vanderbilt University. At the suggestion of a graduate-school classmate, Trevecca Professor Jerry Costa, Dr. Fuqua applied to Trevecca for a teaching position, and for thirty-seven years she has served Trevecca in a variety of positions—teacher, department chair, advisor, and friend to everyone.

Dr. Fuqua's students report that her impact on their lives extends far beyond the door of her classroom. They are grateful for her patience with them, her care for them and their concerns, and her ability to encourage them. They say that she teaches the coursework to them, but they add that she does much more—she shares with them her own thirst for knowledge and plants within them that same thirst.

Dr. Fuqua and her husband, Shannon, have two daughters—Julie, who lives in Ohio, and Laura, who lives in Tennessee. Dr. Fuqua is active in her home church, St. John's United Methodist Church, where she is the lay leader. She is also a certified lay speaker for the United Methodist Church.

To you, Dr. Fuqua, the 2007 Darda is dedicated with gratitude from the many students whose lives were made richer and better because of your dedication to your profession, your love of your students, and your commitment to Christ and to service at Trevecca.

Welcome Week

Dustin Moon

Bob Barker and his beauties participate in Celebrity Skate Night.

Chason Goodwin and Joe Crosby pose as Trivette and Walker Texas Ranger.

Welcome Week 2006 was filled with fun, excitement and activities, including the Back-to-School Bash, the dodgeball tournament, a movie in the quad, and Celebrity Skate Night. Student participation was at all-time high at Celebrity Skate Night, and all other events were well attented. Whether it was dodging balls or skating in circles, everyone had fun.

Mariska Reed and Chris Brewster race to the line to get all the dodgeballs they can for their team.

Students take turns racing down the slip 'n slide.

Jessica Milburn can't keep from laughing as she slides down the hill.

Michael Hendricks flies down the slip 'n slide.

Students gather in the quad to watch Mission Impossible III.

Welcome Week

Kevin Whitsett

Trae Gunter shows off his talent at Showcase 333.

Three key events also included in Welcome Week were the Hart Street Party, the Dreamerz Xtreme Concert, and Showcase 333. The Hart Street Party gave students the opportunity to meet and greet each other while the concert and Showcase 333 were great opportunities for students to showcase their talents. The events of Welcome Week provided a strong kickoff for a brand new year at Trevecca.

Dreamerz Xtreme perform with the help of an outstanding choir full of Trevecca students.

All-School Retreat

Kelly Gowler

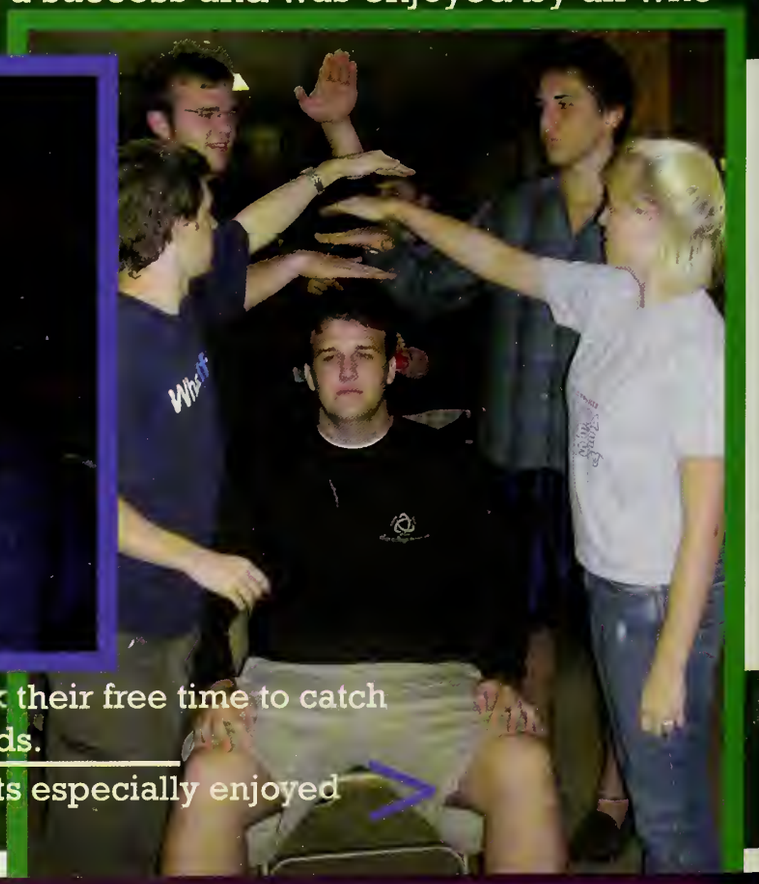
After losing his way, Ben Prescott hugs a tree at the All-School Retreat.

Approximately 40 students went to Horton Haven Camp for All-School Retreat. This event provided an opportunity for students to fellowship together, meet new people, and grow closer to the Lord. Service times were spent in worship led by Jacob Morris and the worship band from Nashville First Church, along with encouraging messages from speaker Mike O'Hair. Outside of services students participated in various activities, including sports games and a scavenger hunt. Overall, the weekend was a success and was enjoyed by all who attended.

Most students took their free time to catch up with their friends.



Retreat participants especially enjoyed the games.

Jeremy Michael, Mandy Smith, and Abby Buter have plenty to be happy about after the hay ride.

Amanda Mollman and Ashley Meeks at All-School Retreat.

Laura Freeman, Tommy Byler, Rachel Brenneman, and Derek Henrichs take a break for some snacks.

Everyone gathers around the bonfire to make s'mores the first night at the camp grounds.

Trojan Idol

Zach Daniels

The hosts stall as the final contestants grow curious as to whom the new Trojan Idol will be.

Hosts Brian Matthews and Daniel Tardy team up to make the night successful.

One of the most anticipated events of the year, Trojan Idol, proved to be a success for the fourth year in a row. This year's Trojan Idol showcased much Trevecca talent, a fact that became evident as the night progressed and each contestant sang. As the number of contestants dwindled from twelve to two, Zach Daniels and Andrew Stonestreet found themselves in the final round. Even though both impressed the audience with their final song, Andrew Stonestreet came out on top as the 2006 Trojan idol.

John Patterson makes a grand performance after taking the advice of the judges the night before.

Andrew Stonestreet wins the hearts of the audience during a key performance.

Singer and songwriter Andrew Stonestreet proudly becomes the 2006 Trojan Idol.

Mallory Guthrie sings her heart out as she wows the audience.

Carly Peck captures the audience's attention during her outstanding performance.

Andy Davis

Andy Davis

Andy Davis and his band played songs both from his new and old album.

Eric Vinson sings "Only Thing".

The Andy Davis Concert was the very first event held in the Boone Business Building. Eric Vinson played a stunning opening as the crowd waited in anticipation to see one of their favorite music artists, Andy Davis. He put on an amazing concert for all of the listeners, and the crowd was quite pleased. This concert proved to be successful as the opening event in our brand new building.

Andy Davis plays "Brown Eyes" from his first album.

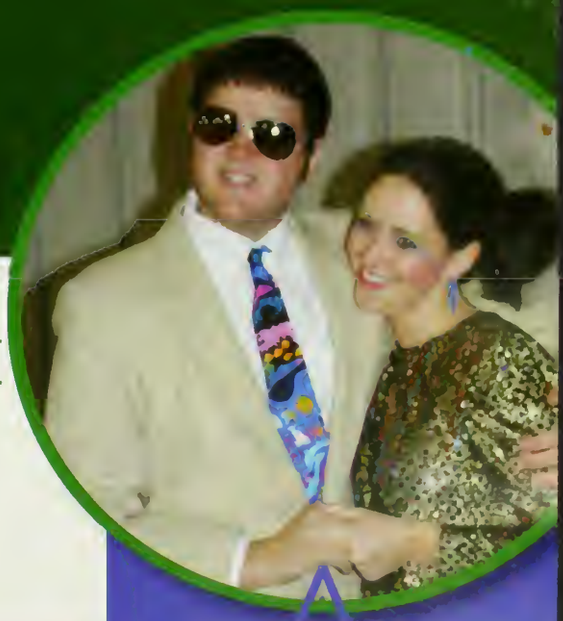
Eric Vinson finishes his last song as Andy Davis prepares to sing.

Lillian Stewart and Brent Peadro are the new queen and king.

Students anxiously await the naming of the king and queen.

Thrift Store Prom Night

Crazy outfits, skating, fun, and pleasant fellowship were combined in the infamous Thrift Store Prom Night. The outfits ranged from big, flowery dresses all the way to various colored suits and bright ties. As everyone skated around, the judges chose the students with the best outfits. The students with the best outfits were chosen to be on the Prom Court. Of the six chosen, Brent Peadro and Lillian Stewart were chosen to be the new king and queen.



Tommy Byler and Traci Pendergraff s for a momentous pi ture opportunity.

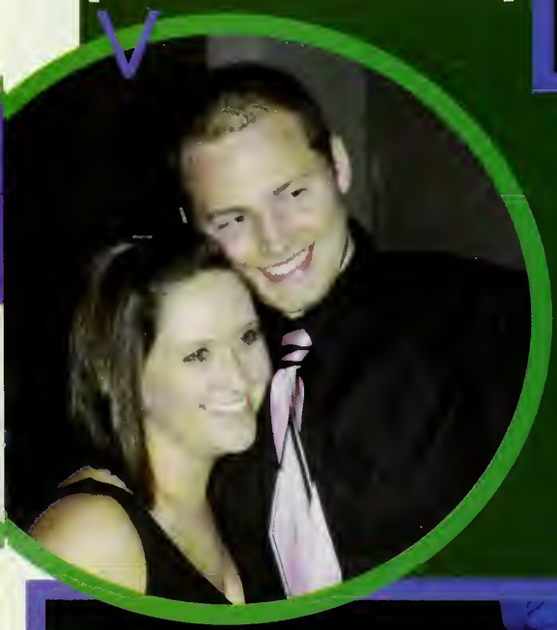
Liz Fitzsimons, Travis Creel, Drew Vinson, and Lillian Stewart enjoy the banquet.

Traci Pendergraff and Joe Crosby put on a smile at the banquet.



Homecoming week began with the Homecoming Banquet. Students enjoyed some delicious deserts and finger foods as well as fellowship with their friends. The Homecoming court was also introduced at the banquet. On Friday the annual Homecoming parade was held. Homecoming weekend was an exciting time for all who had the chance to participate and watch all of the entertainment.

Eddie Witkowski and Jenny Goodson enjoy the food and fellowship at the banquet.

Mr. TNU

Joel Widmer

The final five contestants give their answers to the impromptu question.

Chris Hill preforms during the opening act.

Nine of Trevecca's finest men showed off their remarkable talent in the annual Mr. TNU. After the opening dance, each guy competed in four different categories: drag, celebrity look-a-like, Bible character, and talent. As each of the categories were presented, judges Tommy Byler, Jessica Duranceau, and Denise Boone carefully reviewed contestants' performances in order to choose the three. After seeing Richard Simmons, Rob Bell, Jonah and the whale, the burning bush, a dance through the decades, and so much more, the judges had to make a difficult decision. As Joel Widmer, Trae Gunter, and Dustin Moon made it to the final round, they were faced with a few thought-provoking questions. After hearing the unique responses, the judges talked it over and came up with the winner. The judges were proud to announce that the new Mr. TNU was Joel Widmer. Mr. TNU was an outstanding evening of performance thanks to the organization of the sophomore class.

Friday Night Live

Ben Prescott

Drew Vinson plays Tim Green in a "pray-off."

Amy Freeman was one of this year's hosts along with Ben Prescott.

Friday Night Live proved to be a favorite once again. Each act kept the audience laughing hysterically as the students imitated various campus happenings as well as various pieces from NBC's Saturday Night Live. With a "pray-off," Celebrity Jeopardy, the weekend update, and so much more, the night was full of comic relief for all who watched.

Celebrity Jeopardy was one of the fun-filled skits of the night.

A dysfunctional nativity scene was the opening act for FNL.

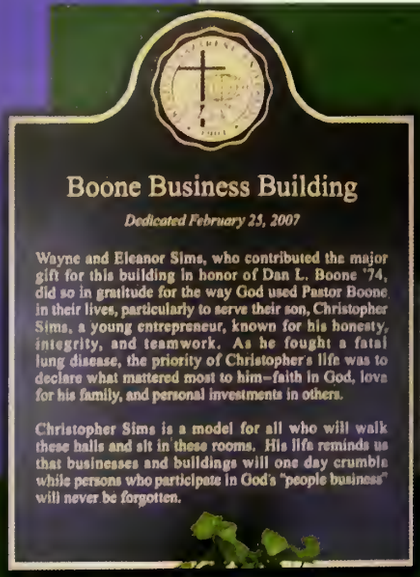
Tommy Byler holds up cue cards as the cast performs an interpretive dance.

Tim Leiphart and Cassie Hamilton posed as the Trojan cheerleaders, a spin-off of the Spartan cheerleaders from Saturday Night Live.

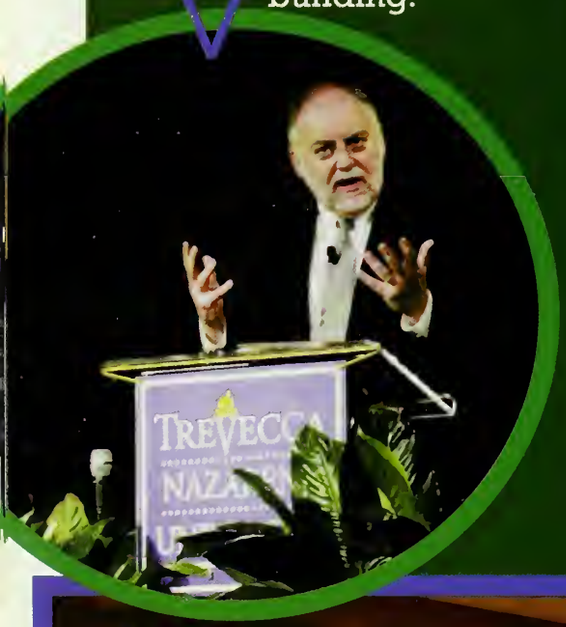
Josh Sinclair and Lillian Stewart provided a humorous weekend update.

The audience and participants could not stop laughing at the joke-filled Debby Downer act.

Boone Business Building



President Boone recounts the story behind the $2 million gift for the new building.



In February 2007 the new Boone Business Building was opened for use. This attractive building, named for President Boone, includes a convocation center, a snack shop, classrooms, and offices for the School of Business. The building was dedicated on February 25, 2007, in a service attended by congregations from Churches of the Nazarene in the area.

A new sandwich shop is part of the business building.

Jr.-Sr. Banquet

On Saturday evening, April 21, the juniors and seniors, dressed in their "party best," attended the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. Held this year at Nashville's Adventure Science Center and catered by A Dream Come True Events, this evening was a time for catching up with friends before the crush of end-of-term papers and final exams and those final goodbyes that signal the end of college life. Dinner music was provided by independent music artist Scott Phillips, and the entertainment included a senior slideshow, a lighthearted look at the seniors and the events and activities of four years at Trevecca. At the evening's end students had time to try out the intriguing exhibits at the center.

Tiffany Thomas, Tim Shay, and Anna Coker fill their plates with mashed potatoes and herb chicken.

Awards Ceremony

Students accept awards voted upon by their peers.

Leroy Pepper presents Stephen Reynard with the History and Political Science Award.

The successes and accomplishments of students were the focus of the All-School Awards Chapel on May 26--a time set apart for the University to honor those students who have excelled in many ways. Each department presented awards to the senior in that discipline who had the highest grade-point average, and departments presented awards for other accomplishments: outstanding sophomore and outstanding junior, outstanding member of a choir or musical ensemble, and other special achievements in a discipline. Seniors who were elected to Who's Who were recognized, and Research Symposium awards were presented. The Student Government Association presented the All-School Awards for school spirit, dependability, scholarship, leadership, and general activities and honored the club and class of the year. This final chapel of the year ended the school year in a positive way by the way it reaffirmed students for their accomplishments.

Jeff Frame awards Kristen Savage with the Golden Rachet Award.

Ruth Kinnersley presents Jenny Frizzell with the Library Assistant of the Year Award.

Nick Robertson recieves the Steinway Piano Gallery Musical Excellence Award from Joel Lewis.

William Greathouse presents tthe Greathouse Scholarship to Jeff Dykes and Chris Cotton.

Shane Kelley awards Shawn Rosson with a book for being the Chemistry Student of the Year.

Sam Stuckle presents the Mathematics Award to Jong Son.

106th Commencement

Dan Boone

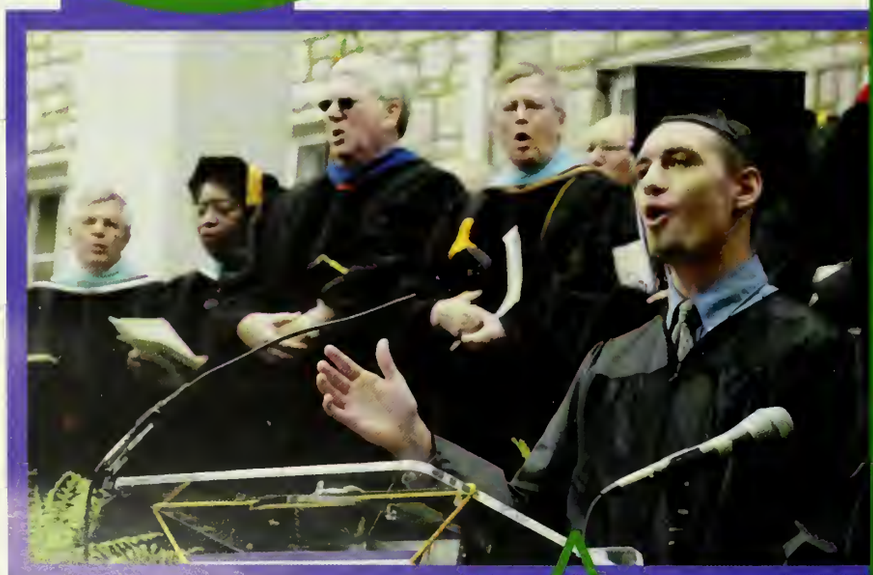
Henry Spaulding provides a challenge to the graduates.

On the morning of May 5 at 9 A.M., excited students filed into their seats in McClurkan Quad ready to cross the stage to receive their diplomas. These soon-to-be Trevecca alumni were given a challenge by Henry Spaulding, professor of theology and philosophy and dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. Three students responded to that challenge: Chad Uram, Eric Nichols, and Steve Moats, each representing a different segment of the graduating class. President emeritus status was presented to Trevecca's three living presidents--William M. Greathouse, Homer J. Adams, and Millard Reed. Finally the time came for students to receive their hard-earned diplomas. One by one each of the 815 graduates was given his or her diploma. The 2007 graduating class was the largest class ever to graduate in Trevecca's history. The ceremony ended with the presentation of an honorary degree to G. Harold McCue for his 12 years of service to Trevecca in the Office of University Advancement.



Scott Keiser leads the congregation in the singing of the Trevecca alma mater.

William Greathouse recieves president emeritus status.

Students engage in worship with one another through singing and listening to speakers every Tuesday and Wednesday. 4. Chapel time is a great opportunity for students to congregate and worship God corporately.

Chapel

Chapel was a time for all students, faculty, staff, and administration to worship together. "I really enjoy chapel because it gives me a spiritual deepening for the week," said freshman Curt Van Cleave. The theme for chapel this year was "Engaged!" Chaplain Tim Green encouraged students to engage in a deeper spiritual relationship with Christ and show it in actions on this campus. President Dan Boone led "Hot-Potato Topic" chapels in which he discussed controversial issues students face, including social justice and sexuality. Other speakers talked about social injustices and about struggles they had and were received well by the students. Chapel allowed students, faculty, and staff to share their faith together in a relaxed setting. Jim Diehl and Susie Shellenberger, speakers at fall and spring revivals, challenged students to devote their lives fully to Christ. Chaplain Tim Green and Caleb Haynes, student body chaplain, also spoke during the chapel services.

King's Kids

King's Kids, once again, has been a great way for Trevecca students to get involved in the lives of the future of the community. Students came to Trevecca Community Church each Tuesday night to work with kids from the Napier Community. Chris Brewster, a senior leader of King's Kids, has been involved with this program since his freshman year. He explains the value of participation in this progam: "King's Kids shows me that in a life of service, you get more out of it than the people you serve." The student workers led various activities including singing, sports, cheerleading, crafts, snacktime, and Bible lessons. King's Kids is a great way to share the love of Christ with kids who need to hear it.

Oasis

Some new and exciting changes were made this year with praise and worship services at Trevecca, and Oasis was one of those. Junior Jeremey Veal and student body chaplain Caleb Haynes wanted to provide the students with an opportunity to get away from the stress of everyday life and offer a time to focus on God. When asked what his goals for this ministry were, Jeremey said, "I believe Oasis has been and will continue to be a great opportunity for Trevecca students to build the community within and outside our campus!" Students were very involved with different aspects of the services, including leading worship and sharing testimonies and devotions. College pastors from the Nashville area delivered messages to the students. The messages tackled issues that were relevan to the students' lives and helped them grow and develop their faith.

SAINTS

Each Sunday afternoon students from campus met with the residents of Trevecca Towers to provide an opportunity for other members of the Trevecca community to participate in worship. The students and residents came together for a time of worship with singing, sermons, testimonies, prayer, and communion. Many of the residents were unable to travel to churches off campus, so in order to make accomodations, the students came to them. During the services the residents of the Towers gave testimonies telling of how much the weekly meetings meant to the residents and how appreciative the residents were of the students willingness to give of their time to fellowship. The residents were not the only ones who benefitted from this time of worship. Kenneth Sawyer, a senior and the leader of the Saints ministry, said, "Saints is much bigger than I am. I marvel at the privilege and opportunity to serve God by being their pastor. Somehow, though, we are the ones who are doing the ministering, we are ministered to much more." Saints provided a great means for the students to reach out to the community and get involved in other forms of ministry. Through the Saints ministry, students are given the opportunity to develop compassion towards others.

he purpose of these groups was to develop a close, spiritual lationship with Christ while also developing a closer relationship with the other people involved. These groups involved ayer for one another and those in need. Other groups went to the community to help impact those around us who need hear the message of Christ the most. This year students had w options for spiritual development. One of these new groups as Merge, a small student-led Bible study, in which different oups met weekly for devotions, prayer, and accountability. ephanie Byler, a senior resident advisor and Merge leader, d this to say about the program, "I really enjoyed getting to how the girls in my group and praying and helping keep each other accountable throughout the week." Groups that met included Lifeline, Crux, Saints, and FCA. All of these helped students to build and strengthen relationships with God and each other.

Angel Tree

In December many children and their parents or guardians met with Trevecca students in Moore Gymnasium to participate in the annual Angel Tree Christmas Party. Students celebrated the Christmas season with children whose parents were in prison. The students selected these children's names and bought them gifts that were on their wish list or items they needed. The activities of the evening included inflatable games, pizza, and the opening of presents. Members of Trevecca's public relation groups Everpraise and Refuge led Christmas carols, and Professor Bryce Fox delivered the Christmas story to some who had never heard it before. With the Angel Tree party, the students were able to show God's love to the children as well as to the guardians who desperately need to hear about God's love. As freshman Casey Rauscher said, "You can definitely tell we were ministering to the kids and the families through this program."

All-School Praise and Worship

Students came together to participate in a vital part of the Welcome Week experience: All-School Praise and Worship. The student body chaplain Caleb Haynes said, "All-School Praise and Worship was an awesome way to kick off an amazing year for our students." The service consisted of singing choruses, reading scripture, and various students giving their personal tesimonies. The students were able to come together and put aside all cares and worries and focus on God. This service was a great way to start students off on a spiritual journey that would develop as the year continuted.

TAG Team: Germany

Trevecca Around the Globe (TAG) was designed to give students an opportunity to go on a short-term mission trip to share the news of Christ with the world. In May of 2006, 32 Trevecca students and faculty members traveled to Frankfurt, Germany, to work with the local Church of the Nazarene, Kirche des Nazareners. "This trip was a great experience that I don't think I would have had if it hadn't been provided by the school. I enjoyed learning about other cultures and how other cultures worship," said Traci Pendergraff. While there, they ministered to the community, prepared a worship concert, and visited one of the two universities in Frankfurt to invite students to take part in worship services and group activities.

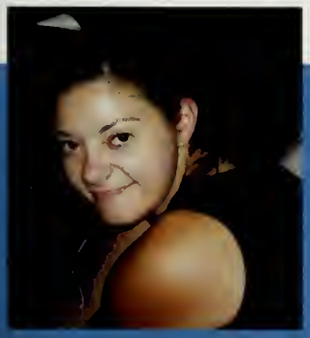
Youth in Mission

Youth In Mission is a God-centered ministry, prayerfully seeking to build the kingdom of God by making global Christians. We feel called to pursue the broken, neglected, and unreached areas of the world with the love of Jesus Christ. This work we aim to do through the equipping of students for incarnational ministry, sending them to care for the poor, comfort the dying, and evangelize the lost. To this end we strive personally to walk with God and to invite others so to do."-YIM Mission Statement Youth In Mission (YIM) is an opportunity for college students everywhere to be involved in an extreme encounter with God and others through a short-term mission experience. In this ministry for the kingdom, students have the opportunity to sacrifice a summer for the radical involvement in a life lived with no regrets. This year Trevecca had students on nearly every continent, witnessing to a wide variety of cultures from the suburbs of St. Louis to the deserts in Kenya.

> We feel called to pursue the broken, neglected, and unreached areas of the world with the love of Jesus Christ.



"God taught me how to love teens through this experience, and I believe we were sent to make a difference in that youth group."

Spring break is a week all Trevecca students look forward to. While many students go home for this week in early March, other students road trip with their best college friends. Seniors enjoy their last spring break, whether it involves traveling home to be with family or heading to the beach. After vacation, seniors come back to school and buckle down and finish their last semester at Trevecca.

As seniors look forward to graduation, they don't always look forward to all the paperwork that comes with this memorable event. The invitations, ordering of cap and gown, final transcripts, etc., can weigh on the senior class as deadlines approach continuously. Just as tedious as it is for students, the offices have to work diligently to get ready too. Most seniors are ready to walk across that platform; others wonder if it's worth all the hassle.

Trevecca seniors enjoy spending their last semesters with close friends and attend many on-campus events. It is a little more difficult to be so involved like the underclassmen with more challenging courses and internships, but they make sure to balance out their schedules and make an appearance at events. Many groups of friends hope to keep in contact with each other as they all graduate and go their separate ways.

During the senior year, seniors start taking classes directed in their major. In these classes they are prepared for their future profession. The professors help students in finding internships in the Nashville area. They have the opportunity to get interviews for internships. Some companies will eventually hire the student to a full-time position once he or she graduates. It may be a scary process, but Trevecca equips many for the "real world" experience.

Many students get the opportunity to live in apartments for the first time their junior year. Along with more freedom, juniors have the option of cooking in their own kitchen. Also these juniors no longer have to worry about open dorms, thanks to their guest passes. The apartments house three students and include a kitchen, full bath, and a generious living space. Those who get to live in the apartments learn lessons about life on their own.

Although some couples decide to wait until after they graduate, other couples enjoy going through the college journey together. Juniors Jon and Mindy Edlin tied the knot in the summer of 2006 and are both taking a full school load. Terrace apartments at Trevecca will be the first place they call home. Although married life might add to the stress sometimes, they say being married is completely worth it!

Trevecca students were able to participate in M7, a Nazarene Missions Conference in Kansas City. Trevecca took more than 80 students, and some toured Nazarene Theological Seminary. Students enjoyed seeing the Church of the Nazarene in a larger context. Along with attending the seminars and services, students were able to engage in community through eating together. Students also enjoyed interacting with TNU alumni.

Dressing up with friends always creates a good time for all who are involved. Campus events--Celebrity Skate Night, banquets, basketball games, etc.-- provide opportunities for students to try out their wardrobe choices. Sometimes the results are formal and classy; sometimes the results are deliberately comical. No matter the event, Trevecca students enjoy dressing the part and letting loose.

Trevecca students love to wake up and see a nice white layer of snow on the ground. These sophomores take advantage of a snow day by throwing snowballs at friends, making snow angels, and building snowmen. Some sophomores find it adventurous and exciting to use cafeteria trays to slide down the hills of Nashville. Since they know there are only a few days of snow, they make sure to spend the entire day enjoying one.

Somewhere between knowing it all and realizing you know very little, you find yourself in one of the middle years of college, specifically as a sophomore. At Trevecca sophomore resident assistants offer advice or provide a pair of ears willing to listen. These RAs, as they are commonly known, made significant impact in the lives of sophomores throughout the year.

Dorm activities are a great way to get to know other students on your floor and in your dorm. RHA and RAs do a great job planning events each month which allow everyone to get together and hang out. Some of the most popular events this year have been the All-Girl Dorm Spa Day, DeCoupage Night, dorm hall decoration competition, and cookie parties. These events allow us to make many lasting memories we will always cherish.

Many sophomore students love to have a little break from class or work schedules to take random road trips. Many students get groups of friends and take them home for a visit, or they will travel to some place they have never been before. Visiting new places is adventurous and fun. Driving with friends is never dull and makes long trips seem so much shorter.

Most freshmen work on keeping off the "freshman 15" by eating a balanced diet and continuing to exercise daily. Many people on campus find that it is better to have a support group and encouragement from their friends so that they can hold each other accountable. As many on-campus walkers make their way around the track, they pass the time by either listening to their Ipods, laughing with their friends, or making plans for the weekend.

While adjusting to changes, freshmen must learn to navigate their way around Nashville. Whether they are headed downtown or to the Franklin suburbs, freshmen make memories with their friends as they drive around. Of course it is best to know directions first, but sometimes it is more fun to drive around blasting music and going crazy. The longer they are in Nashville, the more the freshmen learn about navigating around the city.

Meeting your roommate is the first step in getting plugged in to dorm life. A majority of the freshmen met their roommate at orientation in the summer, and they signed up for a room together. Some were paired with a roommate based on similiarites. But some simply met their roommate for the first time on move in day. Many roommates hangout with each other outside of the dorm. It is these friends who are remembered throughout the years.

While move-in day for freshmen is hectic, many freshmen find themselves going all out in decorating their rooms. After meeting a roommate at orientation, freshmen females begin planning their rooms. Many go shopping after they move in to buy matching pillows, bed sets, and wall decorations. On the other hand, most guys do not spend as much time on decorating; they spend their time playing pool and watching the big screen T.V.

Freshman year was an excellent opportunity for all of the new students to get involved in campus life and to meet new people and grow closer to the people they already knew. As soon as the freshmen arrived on campus, they jumped right into all of the activities offered. Freshmen grew to love the residence life as well as social life and all of the opportunities provided. All of the activities on campus helped freshmen as they made the transition from high school to college.

What was the defining point of the season?

STEPHEN REYNARD

"There was a point when all the chips were down. We had a team meeting and a lot of leadship was displayed. It really brought the team together again."

RANDY HEINZ

"The second half of the game against Cumberland was a big moment for us. We pulled together and played some quality soccer. It was the best we played all season."

Junior midfielder Alex Lorenz and his teammates celebrate his third goal against Fisk Univeristy.

The 2006 campaign turned out to be an interesting journey. The Trojans went into the season with a diverse and talented team. As the season wore on, the Trojans faced hardships with injuries and a tough schedule, but they pulled together to overcome these obstacles. Seniors Dustin Newman, Stephen Reynard, and David Minnick stepped up to fill leadership roles on the team. The talented group of returning players included last year's freshman of the year Mark Foster and honorable-mention All-American defender Calvin da Cunha. A solid group of new players joined the team to give it the most talented roster the team has ever seen. The Trojans jumped out to a bright start this season, winning their first four games. The Trojans went on to post a record of 7-10-1. Sophomore striker Mark Foster and junior midfielder Alex Lorenz scored eight goals. Junior striker Andy Mcgovern added another seven goals. Goalkeper Michael Watson posted three shut outs on the season.

Women's Soccer

What was the defining point of the season?

HEATHER MARTIN

"When we beat Lambuth on senior night, I scored the game winning-goal that night."

KASSIE EVICK

"When I scored the first goal of the season on a header, it was the game winner!"

Moriah Coxen, a sophomore midfielder, controls the ball in a victory over Oakland City.

The Lady Trojans kicked off the season this year with high hopes. Led by Captains Heather Martin and Heather Olsen, the returning players and new recruits meshed well to create a solid team. Coach Champion had a strong foundation of returning players. The complementary new players added an extra spark especially in offense. The Lady Trojan offense was led by freshman Kassie Evick and senior Heather Martin, who each scored four goals. Jennifer Smith provided three goals, and Ashley Halloway had five assists and two goals. The balanced offense was complemented by a solid midfield. The team's success was anchored in its defense led by Heather Martin. Goal keeper Kimberly Goodson provided threee shut outs in the season. The women finished the season with a record of 6-8-3.

Cheerleading

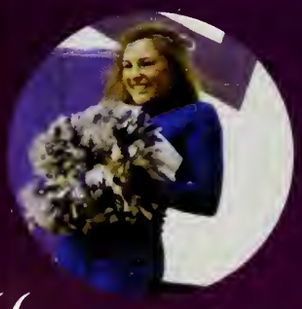
What was the most important moment of the season?



CHRISTINA SKELLY

"When we played Cumberland, our fans were so much fun to watch; it was without a doubt the greatest game I've ever cheered."

TIM LEIPHART

"You may not always be able to hear us over the crowd, but I guess that means we're doing our job!"

Kimberly Potts and Kate Steadman motivate students to cheer during Homecoming.

Beth Philemon and Christina Skelly lead the students in cheering as the Trojans take on Lambuth.

TNU has always been a place full of school spirit; look around at any home basketball game and see the bleachers packed with Moore Maniacs cheering. Leading them on are the cheerleaders who have been a part of promoting school spirit for years. As Trevecca continues to grow, so to does the cheerleading program. This year the Trevecca cheerleaders accomplished some great things. Head Coach Rebekah Hansen was able to put together a talented and dedicated team for the 2006/07 season. As the team worked hard together, they were able to execute stunts and routines that were at the highest level Trevecca has ever seen. As the caliber of these athletes continues to increase and as the program continues to grow, these women and men hope to see this team reach its potential to be something amazing in years to come.

What was your favorite memory of the season?

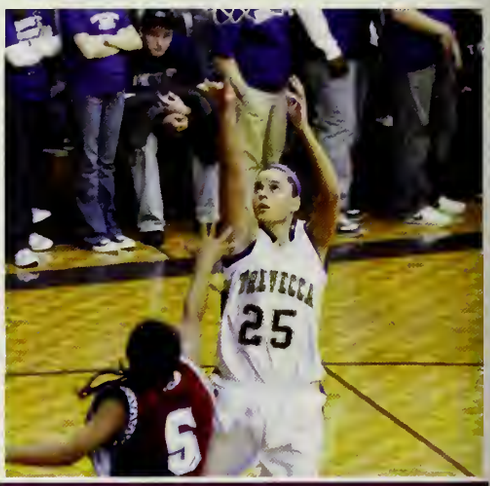
KRISTEN ARCHIE

"Looking out at the crowd during the Cumberland game and seeing the student section all dressed in white!"

MARISKA REED

"The "White-Out" game verse Cumberland was great!"

Abby Lawson drives the Trojan offense up the floor in their win against Lambuth University.



Junior gaurd Kristen Archie scores two as the Trojans overpower Oakwood College.

Amy Beavers shoots a three-pointer while battling with conference foe Cumberland.

Christian Gibson puts her stamp on the game as the Trojans defeat Union University.

This year's women's basketball team proved to be a great one. Coach Gary van Atta had his work cut out for him to replace several key players who graduated. Without skipping a beat the women, led by three seniors, Amy Hutchins, Jaime Luke, and Amy Beavers, marched into the season with high expectations. Several younger players stepped up into key roles for the Trojans this season. Mariska Reed, Jennifer Bogner, Abby Lawson, Kristen Archie, and Christian Gibson all made consistant contributions to the Trojans' successful season. The women had a great season in a conference filled with quality teams. Even so, the Trojans carried on in the spirit of excellence. The women were ranked in the top 10 for most of the season. This year is the seventh consecutive season the Trojans have been ranked in the top 20. The women ended their campaign with a strong run at the NAIA National Tournament, reaching the elite eight for the second year in a row. The women finished 27-7.

Marcos Salvi

What was the most memorable moment of the season?

JOSH HELTON

"Although it's not a happy memory, the last second shot Cumberland made against us will live in my memory forever."

COLLINS ONYANDO

"Watching Bryan dunk so hard over Union's tallest player was my favorite memory."

Freshman Travis Floyd sizes up the defense as the Trojan's take on the Oakwood College.

Junior Josh Helton drives to the basket for two against Bethel College.

Chris Little battles for position under the basket to grab another rebound for the Trojans.

Rick James beats the defense to score again in Trevecca's win over OakwoodCollege.

A young men's Trojan basketball team marched into the 2006-2007 season with high expectations. The Trojans did not graduate anyone from the prevoious year's team, so they had a solid foundation of returning players. In the off season Coach Harris took to the recruiting field, bringing in a group of fresh talent to supplement the team foundation he had already cemented. The Trojans struggled at first but began to get a footing. They fought hard for each win and began pulling down victory after victory. They ended their season with a place in the TranSouth Conference Tournament where they were defeated in tightly contested game by Martin Methodist. The Trojans ended their season with a record of 17 wins and 14 loses. The men know this was a season to build on and are looking forward to next year with great anticpation.

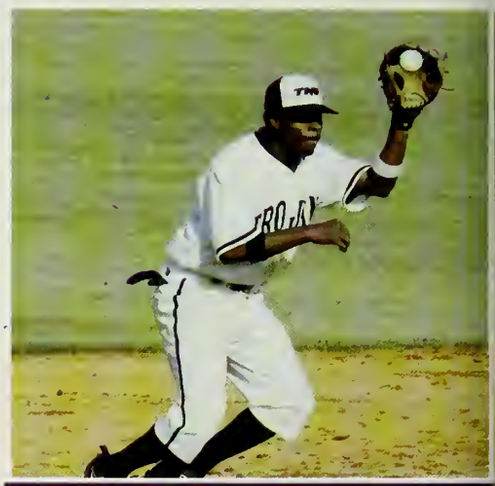
"Winning the conference was easily the biggest moment of the season. It was huge for us."

ERIC HOUSE

"The title game we won over Cumberland really was the defining moment; it proved our ability."

Junior Steven Brown pitches at home against Tennessee Wesleyan.



Senior Maurice Cole moves to make a double play against Union Univeristy.

Senior Adam Fleener moves to make a catch against Cumberland Univeristy.

The Trevecca men's baseball team put forth another solid season for 2006-2007. Chris Collins stepped up to take the head coach position for the Trojans. Coach Collins did not miss a beat leading the team as it battled its way to another TranSouth Conference title. Coach Collins was rewarded for his efforts by being named the TranSouth Coach of the Year. The Trojans beat the Cumberland Bulldogs 14-0 to clench the regular season title. On the way to the title the Trojans notched 39 regular season victories. Senior Maurice Cole was named TranSouth Player of the Year. Cole continued to turn in impressive efforts, batting .410 on the season and scoring 47 runs. Cole was named to the conference first team along with Adam Fleener, Chris Lowe, Barrett Brown, Luke Brown, and Steve Brown. Gunner Thayer, Eric Van Slyke, and Wade Angel were all named to the conference second team. The Trojans capped their year with strong performances in the TranSouth Conference Tournament. The Trojans finsihed the the year 44-18-1.

What was the defining point of the season?

TONI WAYNICK

"Making it to the national tournament proved our talent as a team and rewarded our hard work."

DIANA ECKERET

"The last game the conference tournament we all played well and won the tournament."

Senior Ashley McCool gets a hit against Freed Hardeman.

Freshman Cassady Critchfield prepares to make a catch against Crichton College.

The Trevecca softball team had another stellar season for the 2006-2007 school year. Head Coach Ernie Reynolds led his team to its third consecutive regular season championship. The Trojans also secured their second consecutive TranSouth Tournament Championship, NAIA Region XI Tournament Championship, and NAIA National Tournament appearance. This year was also the second consecutive year the Trojans have won more than 40 games. Led by Pitcher of the Year Brittany Johnson with her 339 strikeouts in 55 games, the Trojans proved again and again to be the team to beat. The Trojans had an impressive offensive season as well, setting a new NAIA record for hits in a season with 650. The Trojans scored the second most runs on the season with 443. Jennifer Perkins' 23 homeruns, Chelsea Bailey's 96 hits, and Ashley McCool's 69 doubles led the team at the plate. The Trojans advanced to the final 5 at the NAIA National Tournament and finished the season with an impressive 59 wins.

Women's Volleyball

What was the defining point of the season?

KIMI COFFEY

"There was a point in the season when we were all torn up and tired. We all pulled together and worked as a team to get through it."

CHRISTINA STANLEY

"When we had to dig in the sand at the team scanverger hunt, it really brought us together and helped define us as a team."

Teammates celebrate with senior Taina Ovchinnikov after they defeat Mid Continent.

Freshman Erin Churovich gets set to serve against Cumberland University.

Head Coach Scott Jones encourages the Lady Torjans to fight through to victory.

oach Scott Jones led an exciting and talented team through its 2006-2007 campaign. Returning only four players from last season's team, Coach Jones had some serious recruiting to do in the offseason. The women added several talented players, led by junior transfer Brittney Ray, to support the returning players. The team meshed well and proved to be a force, steamrolling opponents and posting exciting wins all season long. Led by senior Taina Ovchinnikov, the women posted a record of 20 wins and 15 losses. The Lady Trojans had several impressive victories, including two big wins against nearby rival Cumberland University. The consistently impressive play of the women secured them a spot in the TranSouth Tournament where they overpowered Lambuth before bringing their season to a close.

Men's Golf

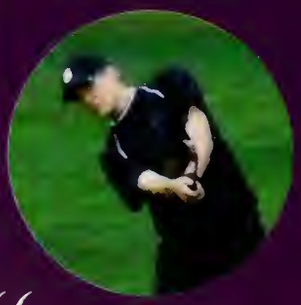
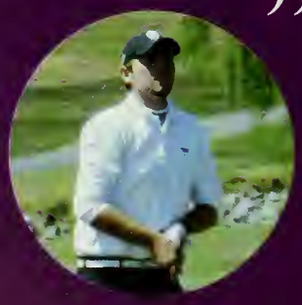
What was the defining point of the season?



CLIFTON SMITH

"The last round of the year at Old Silo Golf Course in Mount Sterling, Kentucky was my best round of the year."



DAVID KING

"The first round of the Spring season at University of Northern Alabama's tournament was a great start to a solid year."

Head Coach Robbie Wilson and Senior David King check out the green before a shot.

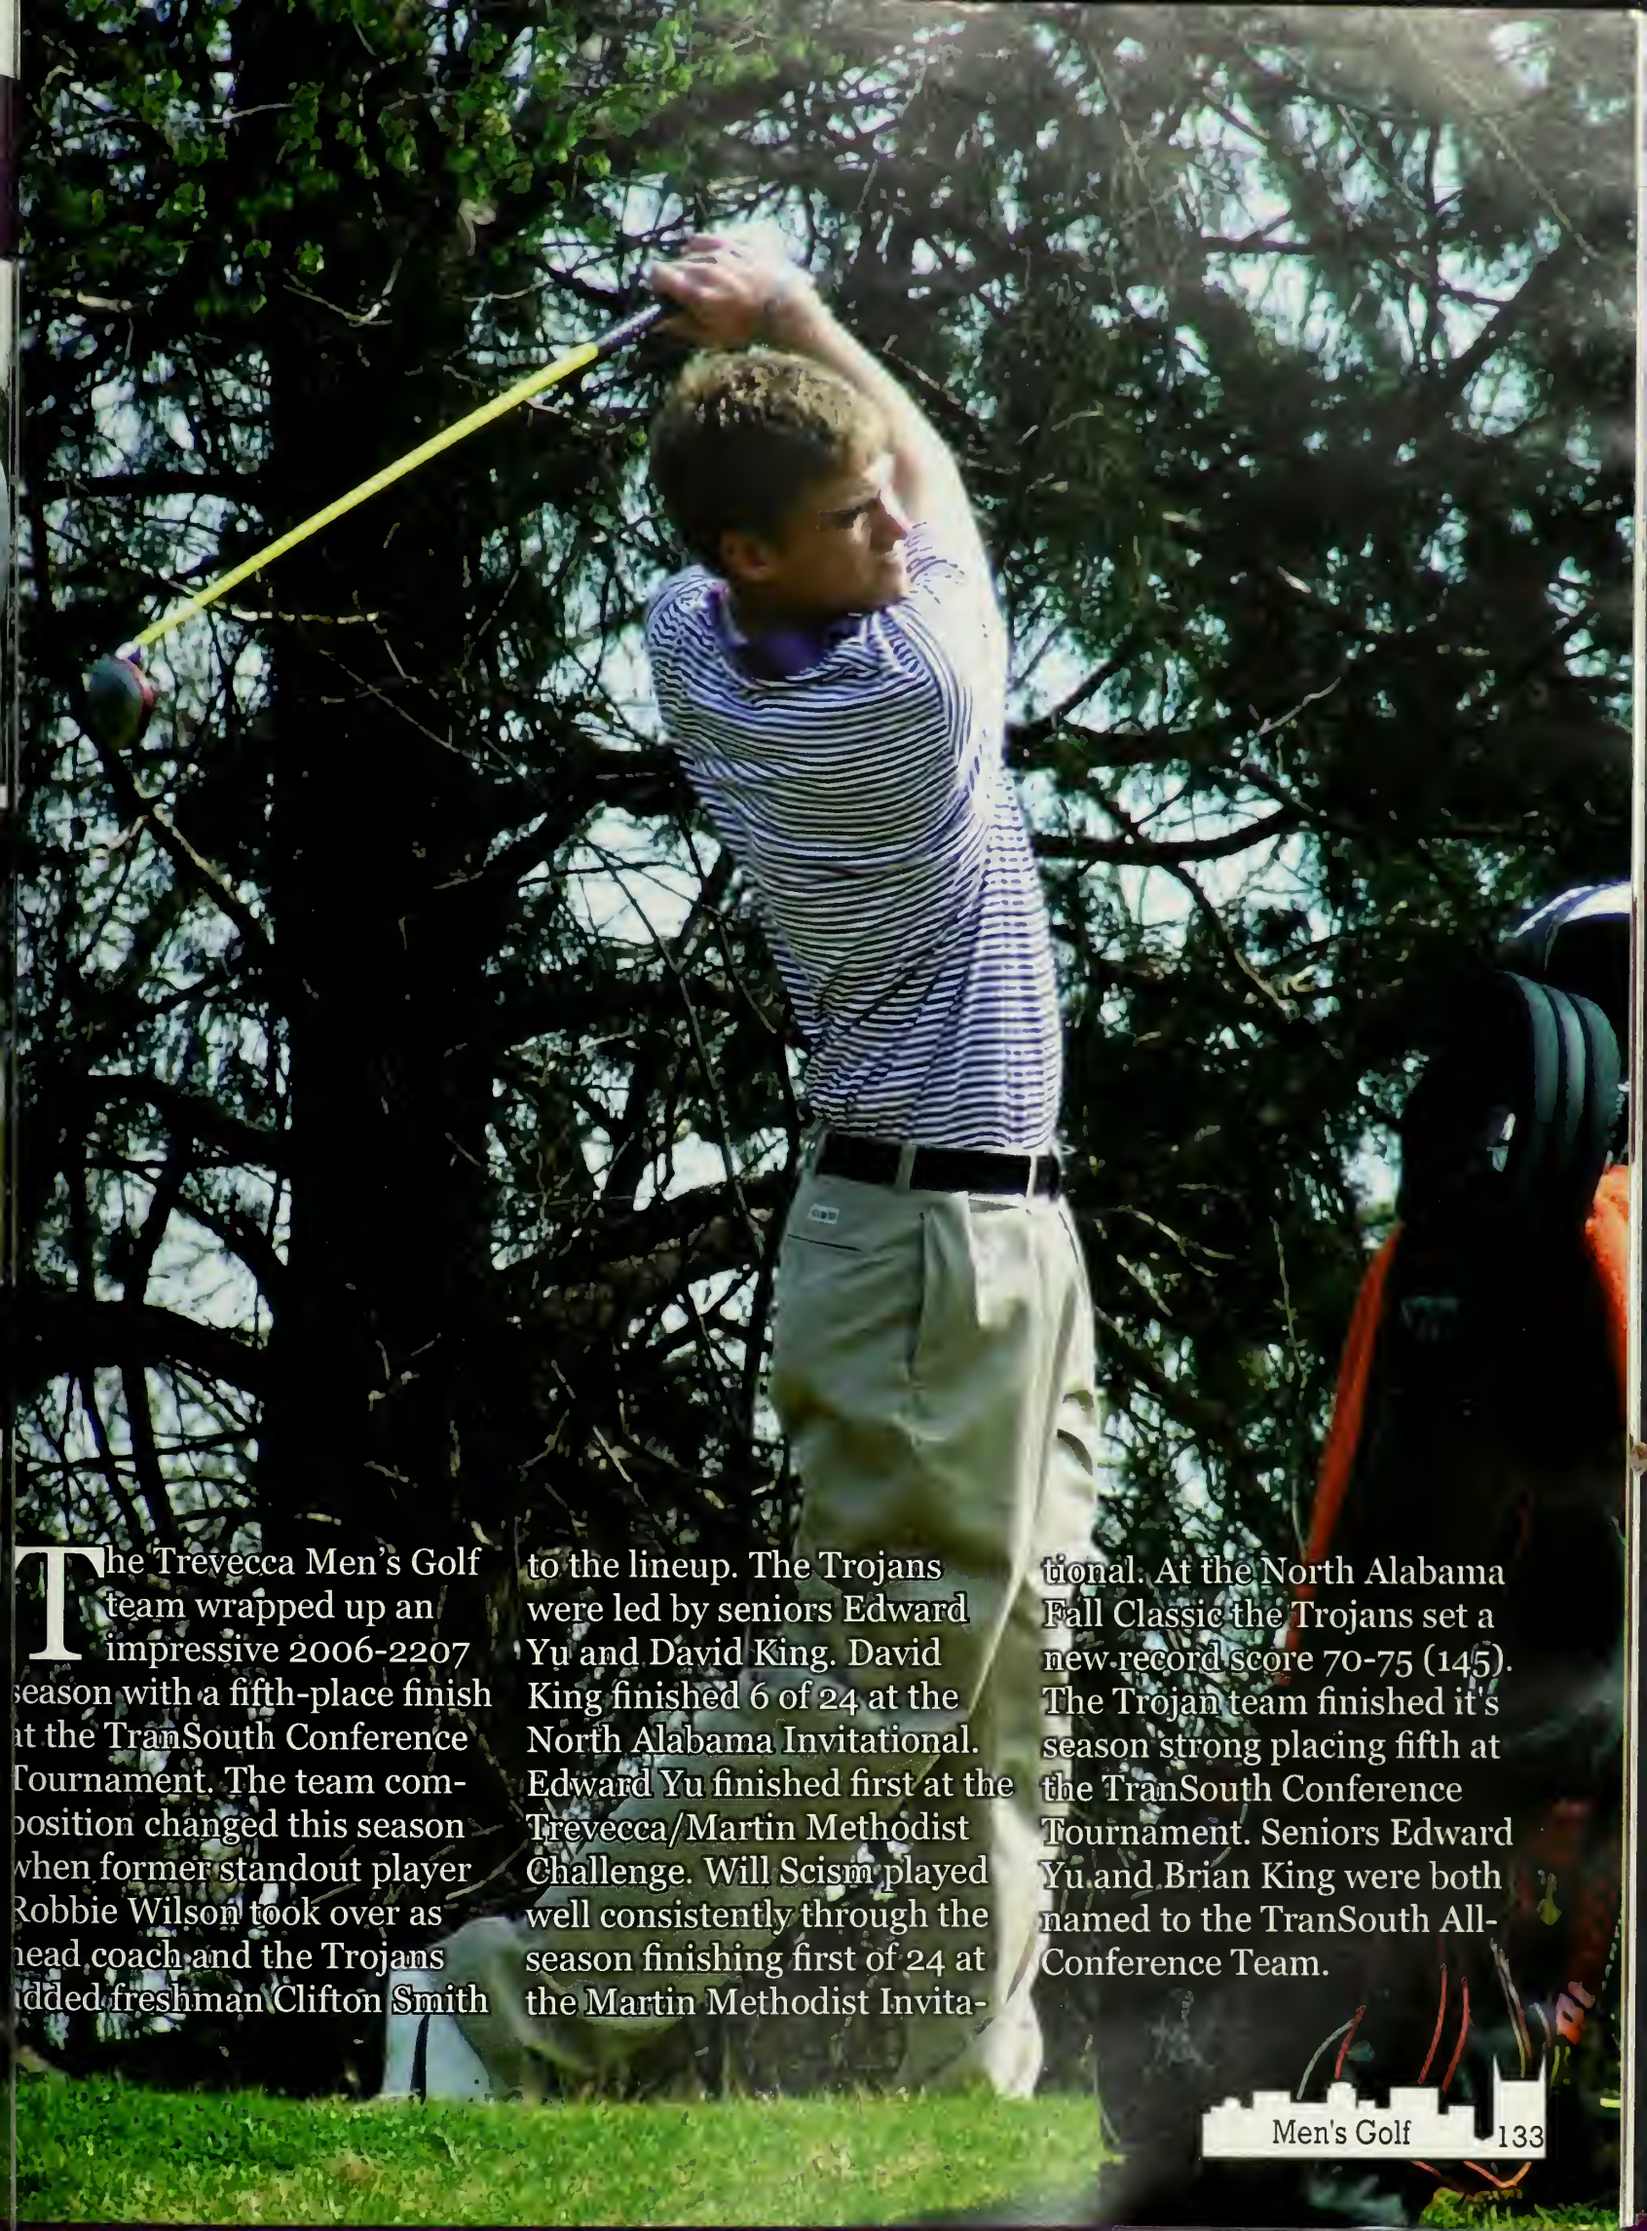
Senior Edward Yu finishes first at the Trevecca/Martin Methodist Challenge.



The Trevecca Men's Golf team wrapped up an impressive 2006-2207 season with a fifth-place finish at the TranSouth Conference Tournament. The team composition changed this season when former standout player Robbie Wilson took over as head coach and the Trojans added freshman Clifton Smith to the lineup. The Trojans were led by seniors Edward Yu and David King. David King finished 6 of 24 at the North Alabama Invitational. Edward Yu finished first at the Trevecca/Martin Methodist Challenge. Will Scism played well consistently through the season finishing first of 24 at the Martin Methodist Invitational. At the North Alabama Fall Classic the Trojans set a new record score 70-75 (145). The Trojan team finished it's season strong placing fifth at the TranSouth Conference Tournament. Seniors Edward Yu and Brian King were both named to the TranSouth All-Conference Team.

Women's Golf

Koriann Reed

From Left: Mindy Seigenthaler, Jenny Mercer, Abby Goodrich, Head Coach Michael Johnson, Noel Muffett, Koriann Reed and Betsy Beaver,

What was the defining point of the season?

ABBY GOODRICH

"I guess it would have to be when I got a hole-in-one in our conference tournament."

BETSY BEAVER

"Our last match of the season at our regional tournament was a great win."

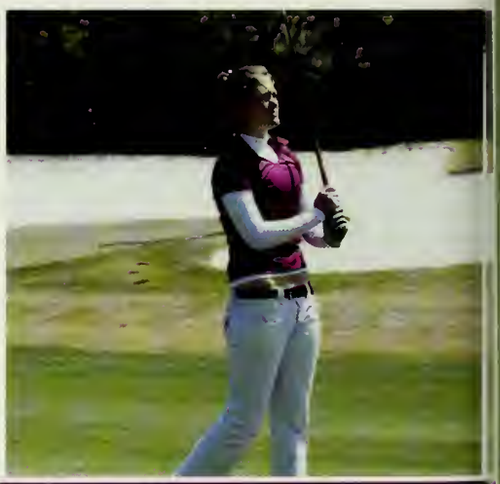
Senior Abby Goodrich leads the Trojans at the Embry Riddle Eagle Invitational.

Senior Mindy Seigenthaler finishes fourth at the Walsh University Fall Invitational.



Koriann Reed tees off at the Southern Nazarene Invitational.

The Trevecca Women's Golf Team had a very successful 2006-2007 season. Led by coach Michael Johnson the Women enjoyed high levels of success. All of the women stepped up with valuable contributions to make this one of Trevecca's best teaams in the Women's Golf Team history. Senior Mindy Seigenthaler had an impressive season finishing in the top five in three tournaments while helping the Trojans to a new record score at the Southern Nazarene Invitational (350-349) 699. Abby Goodrich finished 17 of 61 at the Embry Riddle Eagle Invitational, where the team placed fifth. Freshman Betsy Beaver finished 1 of 20 at the TranSouth Conference Tournament. The Women capped their season by winning the TranSouth Conference Tournament for the 3rd consecutive year and placed second in the NAIA Region XI Tournament. Coach Johnson was named TranSouth Coach of the year as he led the women to the NAIA national Tournament.

It's Life...

Trevecca had a record number of students participating in intramurals this year. Flag football was, as always, one of the most anticipated times of year with 125 men participating in the league and in the PowerPuff League, with almost 75 women participating. The season was very competitive yet very fun as well. In men's basketball 16 teams competed. Half of those were in the upper echelon, known as the A League; the other eight teams were in the B League. The Coed League also flourished this year with 10 teams participating in the action. Trevecca Intramurals did not end there, however. This year a sand volleyball season was added, and 10 teams participated. In addition to volleyball, there was also an Ultimate Frisbee League in which over 50 people were involved. TIA commishoner Brian Mathews said, "I was very pleased with the turn out for each league. Student interest, competition, and pleasure all increased from previous years, making this year a great success." Observer attendance was also very high at every event. Some nights flag football attendance climbed to more than 200.

Resident Hall Association

Before most students even began packing to come back to Trevecca for another semester, the resident assistants (RA) were already back and preparing themselves to serve their fellow classmates. After a weekend of learning the procedures of being an RA, everyone piled into their cars and left for Deer Run Retreat Center where they got to know the people they would be working with for the rest of the school year. While there, they completed a low ropes course, which taught them teamwork, and they also ate all the junk food they could.

Beyond their preparatory work at the beginning of the year, the RAs were responsible for between 20 and 25 students throughout the year. They made room checks and sat in the lobby to ensure that students had the best experience at Trevecca possible.

The Resident Hall Association (RHA) worked very hard this year planning new events such as "talk-back live," an open forum, and numerous video game tournaments throughout the year. RHA was also responsible for a fall luau that turned out to be quite successful. Everyone was pleased by RHA's improvements.

After assembling a staff of seven editors and three photographers, the 2007 Darda was ready to begin construction. After many hours in the Johnson Hall basement, the staff produced what some may call "the best Darda ever."

TrevEchoes

Editor-in-Chief of TrevEchos Jaquelyne Tyne Spruill brought a fresh look to the school's student newspaper. Jaquelyne enlisted a completely new staff: Spruill herself is the "Spotlight" editor; Katie Cox is the "Feature" editor; Aimee Childress is the "Faith and Life" editor; Jessica Baltzly is the "Culture" editor; Scott Oldham is the "Sports" editor; and Mike Kurtz is the "Humorium" editor. This year's newspaper focused on different academic departments, featuring both students and faculty members. This year's staff also focused on helping the Student Government Association and the Residence Hall Association advertise for their upcoming events. Replacing "The Back Page" this year was a new section entitled "Humorium," edited by Mike Kurtz. The section takes a comical look at what most would consider rediculous events around campus. Consistency was a key part of the Trevechoes success this year with an appearance on campus every two weeks.

Student Leaders

Under the leadership of Student Government Association President Tommy Byler, the association made great strides in improving the campus and the community that surrounds it. SGA formed a relationship with Cameron Middle School, located just minutes down Murfreesboro Road. In this relationship, Trevecca students supported a football game, providing 50 fans who sat in the pouring rain and cheered on the team. Trevecca students also participated in several other work projects, including painting the school fence that surrounds the campus, and by staffing some positions during a home basketball game. SGA also found itself providing a lot of fun to its peers. The Social Life Committee provided students with great activities, concerts, and gatherings. The Office of Student Services helped charter several new clubs on campus. The Office of the Chaplain stayed busy with a new Monday-night worship experience, Oasis, that gave students a break away from their mundane schedules and a time to focus on Jesus for a couple of hours. In the end, much was accomplished and Student Government was successful.

Pep Band & Jazz Band

Whether it is an exciting eventful basketball game in Moore Gymnasium or a smooth presentation of music in the Boone Business Building, Trevecca students and alumni enjoyed playing their instruments for listeners. The Wind Ensemble, Trevecca Symphony Orchestra (TSO), Pep Band, and T-Naz Jazz allowed students to showcase what they had been learning in both in the classroom and on their own time. The Wind Ensemble, Pep Band, and T-Naz Jazz were under the leadership of conductor David Diehl. T-Naz Jazz had several opportunities to play off-campus, landing performances in Memphis, Tennessee as well as in Dickson, Tennessee. The Pep Band helped lead the crowd at every home basketball game with their up-tempo jams and familiar songs. The TSO, under direction of conductor Timothy Cierpke, preformed once in the Quad, providing beautiful music on a late-summer evening. Each group practiced dozens of hours throughout each semester, and flourished not only in concerts, but in learning and better understanding of the art of music.

Covenant Choir/ Treble Tones

The Covenant Choir capped off the year by appearing with the Musical Theatre Ensemble in the "Night on Broadway Gala," singing tunes from Broadway musicals. The choir presented six numbers on the show including, "Wouldn't It Be Loverly" from My Fair Lady, "Nothing Like a Dame" from South Pacific, and "Sara Lee" from And the World Goes Round. The show was staged and fully choreographed, and participants were costumed. Participants pronounced it fun and a huge success.

Treble Tones ensemble , comprised of women chosen by audition, regardless of their chosen major , is committed not only to excellence of performance but also to a dynamic Christian variety of literatures. Their program includes the music of the masters as well as traditional hymns, gospel songs, and contemporary Christian selections.

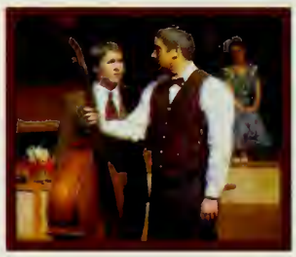
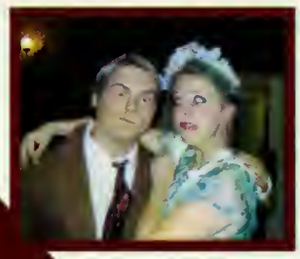
Madrigalians

The 2006-2007 Madrigalians carried on a tradition of excellence in performance that began in 1983 when the group was formed by Professor Mary Bates George. The elite 24-voice ensemble, available by audition to any TNU student, was active throughout the school year, performing in churches and on campus for their annual post-Homecoming "Serenade to Music" concert in November and the much-anticipated Madrigal Dinners in April.

The Madrigal Dinners, featuring the theme "Mad'gical Tale" delighted full-house audiences for three nights with a creative original storyline, delicious home-cooked meal, and of course, the smooth blend of the "Mads" in performance. The Dinners serve as an annual fund-raiser for the Mads' May Choir Tour, which this year took the ensemble out west to California and stops in San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, and San Francisco. In addition to singing in several Nazarene churches and area cathedrals, the "Mads" also took in many of the sights and sounds of the left coast. The "Mads" will embark on their 5th European Choral Tour in May 2008.

Smoke on the Mountain





Darrin Taylor, a sophomore monologuist, acted Preston Taylor, uses his unique story to tell the audience the story.

The cast of Smoke on the Mountain learned to sing and play together, some learned to play new instruments for these roles.

Nunsense, the winter musical for Trevecca Theatre, used a group of singing nuns to capture the attention of the audiences each night. The nuns, "The Little Sisters of Hoboken", as they like to be called, and put on a musical review, trying to raise money for a very worthy cause.

Nunsense

The Department of Dramatic Arts produced three main shows this year: Smoke on the Mountain, Nunsense, and student-directed The Boys Next Door. Smoke on the Mountain provided many laughs for audiences with a country traveling family group that makes an appearance at the Mount Pleasant Church. The time is 1938, and the Singing Sanders Family is ready to be a blessing once again. The musical talent was unbelievable, and it was even more impressive that all the music was provided by the performers as they acted. Many of the performers had not played those instruments before and were taught how to play for the show. Written by Connie Ray, this two-act musical provided great entertainment for "Homecoming on the Hill" weekend.

Nunsense begins when the Little Sisters of Hoboken discover that their cook, Sister Julia, has accidentally poisoned 52 of the sisters. This comedy, written by Dan Goggin, calls for an almost all-female cast, and the students involved welcomed the challenge. Between a novice who is a wannabe ballerina and a nun who loses her memory when a crucifix falls on her head, this play created a good time for the audience at each performance.

The Boys Next Door

Donnie Ryne-Marcus seems to be play the part of Barry's absent father.

Chemistry Harman and Sheila Sim relish the romantic moments of the show.

Actors were stretched to play different roles, and they were forced to change their voices, mannerisms, attire, etc. in order to make these characters come alive night after night.

Spring Production

Trevecca'a spring production, The Boys Next Door, was directed by senior Ryne Mimbs. This heartwarming show about four mentally challenged men living in a group home required the actors to study the characters' various mental disabilities and the challenges each faces. Actors had to portray humorous characters while still treating the subject with compassion and sensitivity. Through the ups and downs of ordinary days and teh caretaker's interactions with Lucien, Barry, Norman, and Arnold, audiences realized that the characters shared a special bond in spite of their disabilities. All the actors' hard work paid off for this very successful season finale.

Public Relations Groups

From the college town of Oxford, Mississippi, to the banks of the Ohio River in Covington, Georgia, to "The Friendly City" known as Bradenton, Florida, Trevecca's public relation groups have stayed busy traveling the Southeast. The public relation groups welcomed change this year with the elimination of Adoration and with the replace of Refuge. This new group, comprised of vocalists and instrumentalists, is modeled after a worship band. Most of its energy and focus goes toward undergraduate enrollment recruitment. This band is comprised of some of the best musicians on campus.

EverPraise continued its role from previous years: visiting churches and performing as a five-person singing ensemble on Saturday nights and Sunday mornings and nights.

Both groups had several occasions to perform together, such as TNT @ TNU and services at Trevecca Community Church.

The groups also traveled to various summer camps and led worship. Both groups also made an appearance at Nazarene Youth Conference in St. Louis.

Summer Ministry Teams

After completing the last camp of the summer, the North Florida Team smiles before their ten-hour trip home.

Brushed my teeth and hit the road...

For some traveling more than 6,000 miles in a van, sounds like an awful time, but for those who were on the Summer Ministry Team, it was an experience not to be forgotten. After completing an application and interview process, students were selected and assigned to certain camps. At these camps half the staff would make up the worship band, while the other half would be in charge of the recreation and activities. Students were able to interact with the kids and set an example for them while introducing many kids to Trevecca and what it stands for. Working at these camps was a positive way to show Christ's love as well as make memories with each other and develop friendships that will last far beyond the bliss of summer.

The students of Trevecca take this opportunity to say good-bye to seven persons who have made an impact on our lives. Thank all of you for the investments that you made in our lives and in the lives of others who preceded us. You made those investments in the obvious places—classrooms and offices—but you also gave of yourselves in chapel services, in casual conversations on campus sidewalks or at campus events, over cups of coffee or cans of soda, in friendly greetings and smiles, and in ways that demonstrate your interest in us.
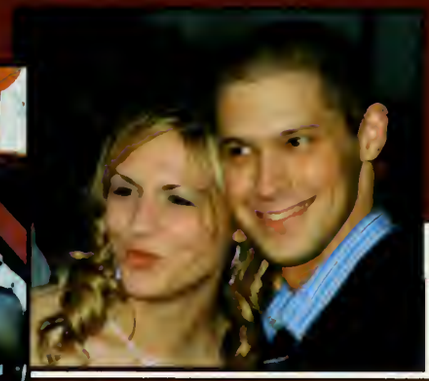
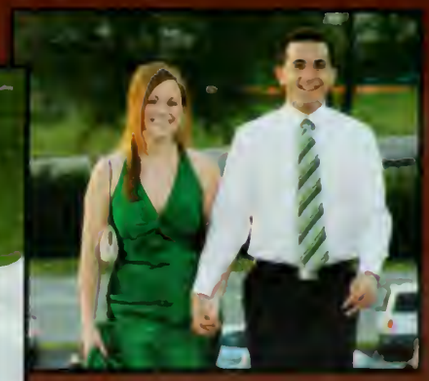
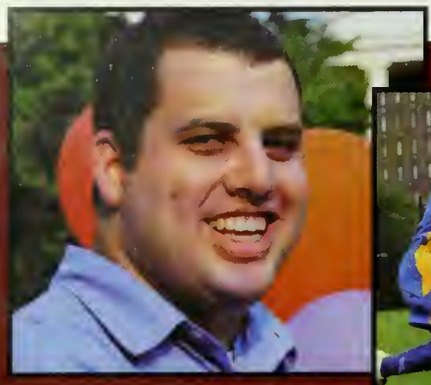
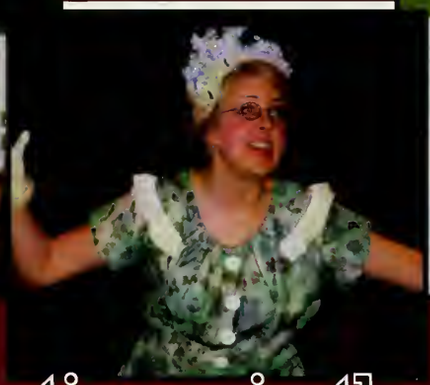
We wish you the best as you pursue other interests, but we want you to know that we do remember the investments that you made in us and we are grateful.

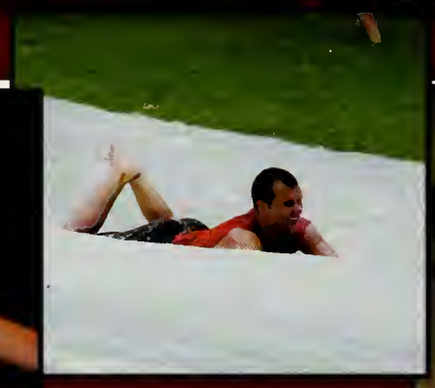




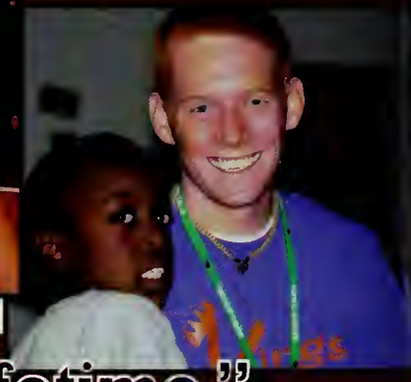


"Life gives us brief moments with another...





...but sometimes in those brief moments...



...we get memories that last a lifetime."

CHAD

A special little boy God gave to us one day,
You were placed into our arms for us to lead your way.
The love we had for you right from the very start,
Has grown so much and now it completely fills our hearts.
Our lives have had so much laughter,
We've had some fears and shed a few tears.
But God has given each their place,
With the passing of the years.
You stand before us now and it's hard to understand,
How God has turned our little boy into such a fine young man.
But this one thing remember as you open each new door...
That as much as we deeply love you, our precious Chad,
God still loves you more!

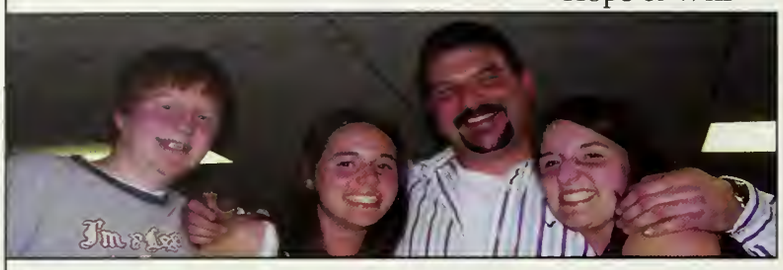
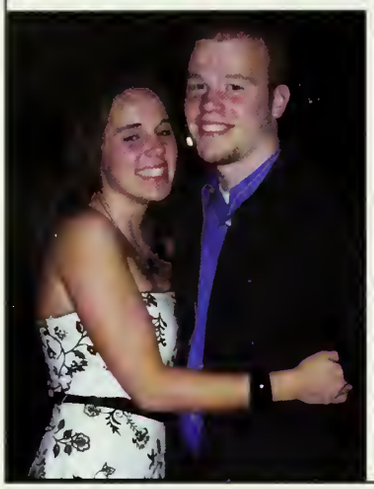
Faith,

We are so excited for you! You are an amazing lady of God, sister, friend, and role model. You are such a blessing in our lives. We wouldn't be the same without you! We love you so much!

Hope & Will





Faith,

What an absolutely amazing woman you have become. It seems just like yesterday you were headed to kindergarten with your shiny, brown hair bouncing in the sunlight.

You have had an extraordinary life. It seems that as you have sought God and followed Him, everything you have touched has turned to gold. Not that everything has been perfect, but your life has definitely been tremendous. We are extremely proud of you. We can't wait to see where God will lead you next.

With much love and admiration,
